ABOUT

I am a talkative and bubbly young woman who lives life to the fullest. My passion in life and absolutely favorite thing to do, is to be around people. I can definitely be called a social butterfly and I believe that it is because I notice the small things in life that I am the person that I am. The Lord, my family and friends are definitely my first priority in life.

I stand up for myself, my values and what I believe in. I enjoy every moment of being outdoors and I love traveling and exploring the world – I can also make any outing fun. I am self-motivated, confident and I'm not scared of venturing into the unknown on embarking on new projects and opportunities. I always bloom where I've been planted, I do everything with heart and soul and make a success thereof. My mom has guided me to seek answers through prayer and not to be afraid to open new doors. I give 110% of myself and I make the most of every minute of every single day! Life is a gift, that's why it's called the present.
